

Christians and Careers

Integrating daily work into our walk of faith

How can Christians integrate jobs and careers into a life of faith?

If you're questioning the meaning of your job, this course is for you!

For many Christians, the best portion of our waking hours are spent at work. But how do we integrate work and career into our faith? In this course, Benny Tabalujan draws on more than three decades of experience as a lawyer, consultant, and educator to facilitate reflection on critical questions such as:

- Biblically, what is the purpose of work?
- Is the notion of a regular sabbath rest still relevant today?
- How do I juggle the demands of work, family, and church?
- Should a Christian be competitive and ambitious?
- Does God call me to a specific job or career?

The course will be delivered over four live online Zoom classes on Tuesday evenings. Each session includes time for seminar-style discussion, engaging with Scripture, and discussing practical applications. With relevant stories from the Bible and contemporary work culture, the course seeks to distil biblical principles which can be applied to working life today.

You'll also enjoy the exchange of ideas and lively banter with fellow believers committed to learning more about how daily work integrates into a life of faith.
